IP Telephony

Extend enterprise telephony anywhere.

Today's enterprise doesn't end at the company parking lot. More and more employees are taking care of business and extending corporate or sales capability from home offices, start-up locations, branch offices – even on-site at customer locations. Toshiba's IP telephony solution makes it possible to embrace this versatility and enable all employees, regardless of location, to work as a single, unified company using the same enterprise-wide telephone system. And it lets you add this capability to your existing Strata CTX telephone system, on an as-needed basis, and without disrupting the flow of business.

Toshiba's IP telephony solution enables you to connect Toshiba IP telephones remotely through the Internet or an intranet, with or without the use of a Virtual Private Network (VPN).

Plug into a superior voice-over-IP solution.

The Toshiba Strata CTX digital business telephone system delivers the most advanced and powerful IP telephony solution available. Together with the Toshiba IPT1020-SD IP telephone, it extends full telephone functionality to any location via your private intranet or the Internet. This enables you to maintain a fully functional extension on your company telephone system — anywhere in the world. And you can do so without the long-distance toll charges between the locations or the need for a new, standalone telephone system at each locale.

Remote users enjoy the same productivity features as locally connected extensions. Plug in and access extension-to-extension dialing, Busy Lamp Field (BLF) station status display, paging over telephone speakers, off-hook call announce over the telephone handset, voice mail, and the many other features the Strata CTX system offers.

Protect your technology investment.

For most companies, successful migration to IP telephony means taking full advantage of all its benefits without replacing their entire telephone systems. Building on their existing telephony infrastructure represents a low-risk, gradual process, and can be implemented as required according to growth, corporate strategy, and numerous other factors. That's why the Toshiba Strata CTX IP telephony solution makes perfect sense — it enables you to create a cost-effective, converged communication system by integrating voice and data IP traffic into your existing telephone system at your own pace. You're able to protect your technology investment, lower migration costs, and take full advantage of the latest in IP telephony. It's as easy as configuring software and plugging in a remote telephone wherever and whenever employees need to work.
